Crimes such as murder, rape, thefts, destruction of property, illegal apprehension/imprisonment, and responses to these by criminal justice systems have been in the focus of criminology and criminologists ever since the establishment of criminology as a science. Traditionally, these crimes have been addressed as challenges to criminal justice systems and societies and were researched with the aim to help us understand why these crimes have been committed and to provide recommendations as to how societies in general, and criminal justice systems in particular, can respond to these so we can live in a better and safer world. And yet, despite so many years of criminologists' dedicated work, these crimes still pose a challenge to nations as our fight against injustices within the criminal justice system and our fights for human rights is still far from being over.

At the same time, one cannot help but observing that these same crimes, when committed in particular times and under particular circumstances turn into crimes criminology has failed to address in an adequate manner. Looking into facts of the past century or so, Europe has been the place where offences such as genocide, war crimes and other crimes against humanity, and more recently terrorism, have been committed. Europeans have also been active participants in such crimes committed beyond the European soil. Yet, despite the fact that these crimes are associated with injustices beyond comprehension and despite the fact that these crimes make us feel more unsafe than ever, there is only a handful of criminological research addressing these crimes and challenges these crimes pose to societies and criminal justice systems. So far, these crimes had been primarily in the focus of historians, ethicists, political theorists, etc.

One could understand the state of affairs if one knows that in its early days criminologists have opted to research topics of common consensus (agreed upon crimes) and unanimously defined and identified "enemy" (offenders). It was needed at the time when a young and aspiring scientific discipline was to be accepted by the nation states and their governments. Otherwise, by focusing on crimes in which nation states and their governments could possibly be involved, criminologists would risk being observed as theorists detached from "real problems", as controversial, and criminology as polemical and unscientific. But those days are long gone. And it is about time criminology and criminologists pay due attention to all types of crimes, irrespective of who the offender may be. It is about time that unspeakable mass atrocity crimes such as genocide, war crimes, crimes against humanity and terrorism get criminologists' attention these deserve. At the same time, one should not be oblivious to the fact that we have still a lot of questions to answer when it comes to conventional crimes.

Maier-Katkin et al. (2009) point out to some of the facts that attracted the organizers' attention. These facts are:

- The number of violent deaths around the world is increasing, whereby more people have been dying as the result of mass atrocity crimes;
- Crimes in general and crimes against humanity persist as threats to social stability and individual well-being; and such crimes raise fundamental questions about the role of a state in the administration of (criminal) justice;

THE SARAJEVO CONFERENCE

- Criminology has a long tradition of studying crimes under the assumption that each may involve different causes and motives;
- Crimes against humanity pose a test to a number of existing criminological theories. Studying these and testing theories on these crimes would contribute to the overall explanatory power of criminology.

Criminologists in Europe have already shown, beyond any doubt, that they are very well equipped to bring light to the magnitude of any crime, to shed the light on the aetiology thereof, and to assess and evaluate a state's response to a crime. And we strongly believe that this applies equally to both conventional and mass atrocity crimes.

In our view, the ESC 2018 Sarajevo conference, in addition to dealing with the usual topics criminologists are working on that one can broadly and generally define as "crimes against humans", simply has to tackle "crimes against humanity" as well. It is so because at the beginning of the 20th century the World War I started with the event that took place in Sarajevo (assassination of Franz Ferdinand, the Royal Prince of Hungary and of Bohemia). And, unfortunately, the very same century ended with war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide on the territory of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Thus, it does not come as a surprise that Bosnia and Herzegovina and Sarajevo have unfortunately been synonymous for "mass atrocity crimes" in Europe in the recent history. We therefore find the title "Crimes Against Humans and Crimes Against Humanity: Implications for Modern Criminology" fitting for the ESC 2018 Sarajevo conference.

CRIMINOLOGY IN BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA: THE PAST, THE PRESENT AND THE FUTURE

1. The past

Although it is nowadays perceived as a non-legal science, like elsewhere in Europe, criminology in Bosnia and Herzegovina was initially taught only at the Faculty of Law of the Sarajevo University. The first criminology institute was established at the very same faculty in 1955. In its work, the institute focused on empirical research, establishment of its own library, not only in the field of criminology, but also other fields of criminal justice related sciences such as criminal law (material and process), criminalistics, and penology, among others. Empirical research at the time included projects, such as Homicides in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Racial discrimination and models of fight on its eradication, and Juvenile crime in industrial areas of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Understandably, the very first university textbook on Criminology, was authored (1972) by Rajka Mladenovic-Kupcevic (1927-2012), professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Sarajevo. In 1973, the Faculty of Law, University of Sarajevo opened its department in Banja Luka, where professor Mladenovic-Kupcevic thought criminology as well. In 1975, the University of Banja Luka opened its own Faculty of Law, and included criminology as an integral part of the curriculum. Therefore, it can be concluded that the initial, the first phase of the development of criminology in Bosnia and Herzegovina is heavily marked by the Faculty of Law, University of Sarajevo and Professor Mladenovic-Kupcevic.

The second phase starts in 1993, during the war, with the establishment of the Faculty of Criminal Justice Sciences (Fakultet kriminalistickih nauka – FKN), University of Sarajevo. FKN's curriculum, comprised of the courses that were taught at the John Jay College of Criminal Justice (NY). In addition to legal courses (such as Criminal Law, Criminal Procedure, International Criminal Law), taught by Rajka Mladenovic-Kupcevic, courses taught at the time included Penology, Sociology of Violence, Forensic Psychology, Criminalistics, etc. It is the students of the first generation of this faculty that will, through their teaching and research, significantly contribute to the role and position of criminology in Bosnia and Herzegovina today. As the result of their work, as well as of the work of other colleagues at the FKN, criminology has spread to other faculties of the Sarajevo University (Faculty of Political Sciences), University of Tuzla (Education-Rehabilitation Faculty), University of Zenica (Faculty of Law), etc.

2. The Present

In 2008, curriculum of the FKN was so diversified in three clearly distinct fields that the internal organization was imminent. As the result, the Faculty was internally organized into three departments: Criminalistics, Criminology and Security Studies. This change in organization, which may have seemed purely administrative at the time, provided an impetus for further strengthening of Criminology as a separate science and marked the third phase of the development of criminology in Bosnia and Herzegovina. As a consequence, undergraduate, master and PhD programmes in Criminology have been developed. Nowadays, students can get their BA, their MA and their PhD degrees in Criminology if they study at the Faculty of Criminalistics, Criminology and Security Studies (FCCSS), University of Sarajevo, in Bosnia and Herzegovina. This makes the hosting institution of the 2018 ESC Conference unique in the Balkan region.

This third phase is marked by intensified international presence (attendance at the ESC and other conferences), networking with colleagues from Europe and USA, and participation in numerous international and comparative research projects (Fear of Crime, ISRD, Eurogang, etc.) and initiatives (Max-Planck Partner Group for Balkan Criminology). At the same time, domestically, the FCCSS kept working on the relationship with various national institutions, ministries and governments, gaining very influential and affirmative role in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Through all this international and domestic work, the FCCSS kept growing, within very short period of time, into an institution capable of organizing the most important and the biggest criminological event in Europe – the ESC Annual Conference.

This year's Annual Conference of the European Society of Criminology, the 18th in a row, will take place from August 29th to September 1st 2018 in Sarajevo, Bosnia and Herzegovina, under the title Crimes against Humans and Crimes against Humanity: Challenges for Modern Criminology. Total of 1200 individual submissions (abstracts) had been received, out of which total of 300+ sessions had been organized. It is expected that the conference will be attended by 1300+ participants (for more on programme and social activities see www.eurocrim2018.com). This conference will mark the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the Faculty, end “the present” and open doors for the future.

3. The future

So, what can be expected in the future? What will the future (Bosnia and Herzegovina) bring to criminology? And what will criminology bring to the future (Bosnia and Herzegovina)? It is common place to observe that post-war Bosnia and Herzegovina is facing various challenges: cybercrime, ecological crime, migration flows, crimes against children, trafficking in human beings, terrorism, organized crime, corruption, are only the first once that come to mind. If these are to be addressed properly, they will have to be well researched and understood. So far, Bosnia and Herzegovina investment into research amounts to . . . nothing. Not a single euro. Research had either been financed through international organisations (governmental or non-governmental) or implemented by enthusiastic young researchers running projects in their free time. It is hoped that the very present, the ESC Conference, the sheer number of criminologists present and topics they cover and address in their respective countries, will lead governments in Bosnia and Herzegovina to recognize a direct link between criminological research, as a process of fact finding, on one side and effective criminal justice and other security policies, on the other. This, it is hoped, would lead to a dedication of budgetary funds for criminological research, which would provide a fertile ground for further development of criminology in the country and, later on, contribute to introduction of evidence based policies.

Impossible? Not really. In the words of Muhammad Ali: “Impossible is just a big word thrown around by men who find it easier to live in the world they've been given, than to explore the power they have to change it. Impossible is not a fact. It's an opinion. Impossible is not a declaration. It's a dare. Impossible is potential. Impossible is temporary. Impossible is nothing.” So, dear friends and colleagues, welcome to Sarajevo, welcome to Bosnia and Herzegovina, and thank you for helping us dare, explore potentials and change Bosnia and Herzegovina for better.

The University of Sarajevo is a sizeable and complex organization carrying out the noble mission of educating able, creative and internationally competent personnel in all areas of interest for Bosnia and Herzegovina through teaching and research. The personnel are expected to address the challenges of modern economy in European and global political, economic, social and cultural context.

The University is committed to remain an autonomous academic community of teachers, researchers, artists and students incorporated into the international university and academic community and trends.

The University continually invests efforts in strengthening its role as a responsible institution within its social community, and to ensure the role of the recognizable center for scientific and artistic work, bringing together teams of domestic and international experts and artists around projects relevant to the domestic, regional, and wider social context and environment.

The organization and activities of the University of Sarajevo, as a public higher education institution in the Sarajevo Canton, are prescribed by the Framework Law on BH Higher Education, the Law on Higher Education in the Sarajevo Canton and the University's Statute. The University of Sarajevo's member institutions are twenty-five Faculties, three Academies and five research Institutes with the status of full members, internally organized within six Science/Arts Groups from the fields of:

- Social sciences
- Humanities
- Medical sciences
- Natural, mathematical and bio-technical sciences
- Technical sciences
- Arts.

Official language

In Sarajevo, Bosnian, Croatian and Serbian are spoken, which are basically a variant of one base language. Sarajevans also learn foreign languages and many understand the basics of communication in English and German.

Non-smoking areas

Smoking in Sarajevo is allowed in almost all places. Smoking ban is implemented very flexibly so that some hotels or restaurants have designated areas for smokers and non-smokers. Smoking is mostly banned in cevapi places, traditional food places and some pastry shops in the old part of town, as well as some restaurants and pastry shops in shopping malls.

Time zone

Bosnia and Herzegovina and Sarajevo are in the Central European Time Zone (GMT +1).

Currency

Bosnia and Herzegovina's currency is a convertible mark. Bills of 10, 20, 50, 100 and 200 BAM, and coins of 1, 2 and 5 BAM are in circulation. The smaller denomination is a convertible pfennig (1 BAM has 100 KF), and the coins are 5, 10, 20 and 50 KF. Currency can be exchanged in authorised exchange offices, banks and post offices, as well as hotels according to the daily exchange rate. Commission fee varies from 1 to 1.5%.

Credit Cards

Most stores and restaurants accept American Express, Diners, Mastercard and Visa credit cards. However, in most cafes and crafts you will have to pay in cash. The same goes for parking fees or tickets for city transport.

Tax Free Shopping

Foreign nationals, upon leaving the customs area of BiH, are entitled to Value Added Tax refund (VAT).

The buyer pays the goods in full amount with the VAT included. The minimum amount of invoice eligible for VAT refund is 100.00 BAM, whereby the seller issues the fiscal invoice in full amount, a filled-out VAT-SL2 form in three copies and an invoice.

In order to get a VAT refund, the buyer who had previously purchased goods must take the goods out from the country within 3 months. When crossing the border of BiH to another country, the buyer is required to report the invoiced goods and have the PDV-SL2 form stamped at customs.

The buyer is then required to supply the seller with a valid PDV-SL2 form and an invoice certified by the Customs within 6 months.

Road rules

Rules that apply are like in the European Union. Speed limitations follow standardised rules. Permissible speeds: in settlements 60 km/h; outside settlements 80 km/h; on the highway 120 km/h.

In the event of a road failure, assistance on the road will be provided by the Bosnian Motorcycle Motor Club BIHAMK by calling 1282. For international calls, use the following number +387 33 282 100.

Coordinates

Geographic coordinates of Sarajevo are: 45°53'28" north latitude and 18°25'50" east longitude.

Climate

The Sarajevo region is characterised by a moderate continental climate and four clearly distinguished seasons. January is the coldest with a mean temperature of -1.3°C. Sarajevo has an average of 28 ice days. July is the hottest month with a moderate mean temperature of 19.1°C. Sarajevo has 68 days of summer. Autumn is warmer than spring due to a strong thermal influence of the Adriatic Sea. The average annual temperature in Sarajevo is 9.7°C. In Sarajevo, there are 1830 sunny hours per year, on average. The average annual rainfall is 919 litres per square meter.

Electrical Power Supply

Electrical supply is 220V with frequency 50Hz.

Water Supply

It is safe to drink tap water in Sarajevo.

Measuring System

Metric system

Phone and Internet

You can buy prepaid mobile phone cards and top-ups, as well as cards and top-ups for mobile internet at newsstands or stores. Many hotels, restaurants and cafes have free Wi-Fi. Local operators also offer mobile internet, but the cost of roaming internet traffic can be very high.

Sarajevo Canton

Based on the Constitution of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina (Official Gazette of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, No. 1/94), the Assembly of the Sarajevo Canton, at its session held on 11 March 1996, adopted the Constitution of the Sarajevo Canton, regulating the organisation and status of the Sarajevo Canton and its government structures.

According to the entity borders in Bosnia and Herzegovina under the Peace Accord signed in Paris on 14 December 1995, the area of the city of Sarajevo became a part of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and was organised as a canton (administrative unit) in accordance with the Constitution of the Federation of BiH and the Constitution of Sarajevo Canton. The official name of this canton is the Sarajevo Canton, and its seat is in Sarajevo.

Sarajevo is the capital of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Federation of BiH. Cantonal authorities must ensure full protection of the interests of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Federation of BiH in the Sarajevo Canton.

The territory of the Canton covers the areas of the municipalities of Centar Sarajevo, Hadzici, Ilidza, Ilijas, Novi Grad Sarajevo, Novo Sarajevo, Stari Grad Sarajevo, Trnovo and Vogosca as defined under the Peace Accord.

The Sarajevo Canton is located in the Dinaric Alps ridge, at a meeting point of two large natural-geographical units, namely the Podunavlje part of the Danube river basin and the Adriatic Sea. It covers the area of 1.268,5 km<sup>2</sup> which makes up for 2.5 % of the territory of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The Sarajevo Canton is between 43°35' and 44°7' north latitude, and between 18°0' and 18°38' east longitude. The distance between the northernmost point of the Canton and the southmost is 62 km, with 52.5 km between the western and eastern point. The total length of the Sarajevo Canton border is 303.5 km.

From the geomorphologic point of view, the Sarajevo Canton is an extremely mountainous area, where 78% of its area is located in a region of over 700 meters above sea level, hilly region between 550 m to 700 m account for 13%, while only 9% belongs to the lowland region. The Sarajevo Canton has two climatic types – continental climate up to 600 meters above sea level, and continental-mountain and alpine type of climate above this altitude.

The Sarajevo Canton area is known for some natural mineral raw materials and its exploitation from pre-Roman times. Natural building materials were mostly used, that is, gravel, sand, clay, dolomite, limestone and quartz sand, and small quantities of manganese, mercury, and drinking water and mineral water for drinking and thermomineral water for spas. Nevertheless, today the most important and most valuable natural resource of the Sarajevo Canton is the drinking water in the Sarajevo plain. The next in line are thermomineral waters of Ilidza and Blazuj, and thermal water in Butmir.

The population of the Sarajevo Canton is estimated at around 400,000.

City of Sarajevo

In the Sarajevo Canton, municipalities of Centar, Novi Grad, Novo Sarajevo and Stari Grad make up the City of Sarajevo as a unit of local self-government. The City of Sarajevo in all four of its municipalities has the population of 297,416.

Diplomatic missions

List of embassies, consulates and international organizations: mvp.gov.ba

Religion

Religious landscape of Sarajevo is unique in Europe – due to its diversity, the city is often compared to Jerusalem. Sarajevo is the seat of the Grand Mufti, the head of the Islamic Community in Bosnia and Herzegovina, the seat of the Dabro-Bosnian Metropolitan of the Serbian Orthodox Church, and the seat of the Vrhbosna Archdiocese of the Roman Catholic Church in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Downtown Sarajevo, at just a hundred meters away, is a home to many sacred buildings of four world religions – mosques from the Ottoman times, Orthodox, Roman Catholic and Evangelical churches, the synagogue and other cultural and historical landmarks.

Opening Plenary, ESC Awards Ceremony, and Welcome Reception

You are warmly invited to attend the Opening Ceremony that takes place on Wednesday 29th August starting at 18.00 in Faculty of Mechanical Engineering Auditorium. This is followed by the ceremony to present the 2018 ESC Criminology Award and the ESC Young Criminologist Award.

Afterwards, please join us at the Welcome Reception at OAZA Networking Spot (University Campus) for wine/soft drinks.

Refreshment breaks

Tea, coffee and refreshments will be provided for free, in OAZA Networking Spot and Coca-Cola Refreshment Spot.

Poster session, wine reception and 'ice cream social'

You are invited to attend the Poster Session and Ice-Cream Social event which takes place on Thursday 30th August, 19.00 to 20.00, at OAZA Networking Spot in University Campus. The 'ice cream social' is in partnership with the American Society of Criminology and the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences.

Farewell dinner and party

We are excited to invite you to the Farewell dinner on Friday 31st August in "Park Princeva" restaurant and Open Air Concert at University Campus. Dinner begins at 19.15. Registration and payment for attending the dinner is required. Delegates have the opportunity to book this in advance at the cost of €35 per person.

The dinner is followed by a concert party which is open to all delegates to attend for free, starting at 21.00 and finishing at midnight.

Internet access

You can connect to Wi-Fi using the free conference access. If you have Eduroam configured on your mobile device, you will be able to connect to WiFi by clicking on 'eduroam' from the list of wireless networks available (Only in main venue – Building A).

Conference app

The ESC is using a conference app which you can access on your Android or iOS phones and tablets. The app allows you to view and search the conference programme and select which sessions you are interested in attending. You can view the maps and information about the local area.

To download the app, please visit Conference site: www.eurocrim2018.com and follow the instructions.

Conference identification badges

You will be issued with an official conference badge when you register. First day (29th August) you can register at Faculty for Mechanical Engineering (Building H) and on Building A after first day. You must wear this badge at all times during the conference to gain access to the panel sessions and key events. Delegates not wearing a badge may be prevented from conference access.

GENERAL INFO

Volunteers

We have a team of volunteers providing assistance throughout the conference. They will be wearing conference t-shirts. Please do not hesitate to contact them if you require assistance.

Luggage, belongings and lost property

Please ensure that you keep your luggage and belongings in a safe and secure place at all times, and do not leave them unattended. While there will be a security presence throughout the conference, University of Sarajevo and the ESC cannot be held responsible if any items are lost or stolen.

Please report any items of lost property to the registration desk. Upon checkout, most hotels will allow you to store items of luggage in a locked room which can be collected later. If this option is available in your hotel then please make use of it.

Religious services

There is a religious objects of all denominations near the conference venues – please ask a volunteer for directions

Conference Security

If you have any concerns about security during the conference then please contact the general security team.

Chairs

- Please arrive at the session room at least 10 minutes before the session starts.
- Chairs should rigorously enforce the schedule.
- Each panel session will last 75 minutes. Allow at least 15 minutes for questions and comments from the audience. Divide the remaining time evenly between the presenters of the session.
- Introduce each presenter – name, institution and title of the presentation.
- Please adhere to the order of presentations as they appear in the conference programme.

Presenters

- The maximum time for your presentation is 15 minutes.
- Arrive at the room of your session at least 10 minutes before the session starts
- Bring your presentation on a USB memory stick in PowerPoint, PDF or Word format.
- You will be required to use the PC laptops that are provided, therefore, you cannot use your own laptop and please ensure that if you have created your presentation on an Apple device, that the format of your presentation is compatible with PC computers.
- Please ensure that your presentation slides are designed so that they can be easily read by the audience. Careful attention should be paid to font size, style, spacing and colours to maximise readability.

Volunteers will be available in or nearby the session rooms to help you if you require assistance.

Information for Poster Presenters

Design

Poster headings must include the title of the presentation, the names of authors and their affiliation. The poster should be a text size that will be easily legible from a short distance. Graphs, pictures, etc. are an interesting addition.

The content of the presentation must reflect the summary of information given in the abstract. Poster board dimensions will be 100 cm in width and 200 cm in length. We recommend a maximum poster size of 85 cm in width and 120 cm in length (A0 paper size). The poster can be presented in either landscape or portrait orientation.

Before the conference

Please note that you are solely responsible for looking after your poster prior to, during and after the conference. We ask that, where possible, you do not send the poster to the organisers in advance but, rather, bring it with you when you travel to Sarajevo. If this is not possible then you can mail your poster to the conference organiser but you must allow sufficient time to avoid any delay in your poster arriving. Remember that the conference organiser does not accept responsibility for the timely arrival, security or storage of your poster. We do not accept posters that have been emailed to the conference organiser. They must arrive in a printed format.

INFORMATION FOR PRESENTERS

During the conference

Please ensure you adhere to the time slots below:

Poster set-up: Thursday, 30. August 2018 - 13:00 – 18:00
